

GP-led respiratory clinics are designed to assess, test, and treat people with mild-to-moderate cold and flu symptoms. If you have these symptoms, you are encouraged to call your usual GP to discuss your options, or you can make an appointment with the nearest GP-led respiratory clinic or call the Public Health Hotline (1800 671 738) for advice.

Who are the clinics for?

Anyone with:

- fever
- stuffy or runny nose
- sneezing
- sore or scratchy throat
- dry cough
- muscle aches and pains
- shortness of breath

people experiencing severe symptoms

Call 000 for an ambulance

How do you book?

■ you can book your own appointment:

- online via the HotDoc website: www.hotdoc.com.au
- by calling the closest clinic in business hours.

turn up at the clinic without an appointment

What happens at the clinic?

■ you will be seen by clinic staff and managed depending on your symptoms

- if you are tested, you'll have to self-quarantine until the results come back
- you won't be charged for this assessment

chase up your test results

You'll be contacted with your test results. If it comes back positive for coronavirus, public health staff will call you and give you advice on what to do next.

Where's my nearest clinic?

North

Launceston Respiratory Clinic
Phone: 6310 8310

East coast

St Helens Respiratory Clinic
Phone: 6351 0007

South

Hobart Respiratory Clinic
Phone: 6165 2367